John Oxborough, through his company OiDesign, stands out in the New Zealand interior design and art consultancy scene, offering a comprehensive suite of services designed to elevate any space. OiDesign specialises in art consultation, including the sourcing and procurement of unique artworks, as well as expert picture hanging and framing services. Whether you're based in Auckland or North Shore, OiDesign ensures that your art is displayed to its fullest potential, enhancing your living or working environment with a professional touch. In addition to these art services, OiDesign is renowned for crafting custom-designed bedroom furnishings, with a particular emphasis on bespoke headboards that bring both style and functionality to any bedroom. John Oxborough's craftsmanship extends to tailor-made furniture and cabinetry, reflecting his deep commitment to quality and design excellence. OiDesign also provides detailed interior concept drawings and high-quality renderings, giving clients a clear vision of their design projects before they come to life. From the initial concept to final execution, OiDesign ensures a seamless and cohesive process, making the journey from idea to reality both smooth and satisfying. Collaboration is central to OiDesign's approach, leveraging John's extensive network of leading interior designers across New Zealand. This network allows OiDesign to connect clients with other trusted professionals when needed, ensuring all aspects of their design requirements are met with the highest standards. In addition to core offerings, OiDesign, led by John Oxborough, is committed to sustainable and innovative design practices. By prioritising eco-friendly materials and methods, OiDesign strives to create beautiful, functional spaces that are both aesthetically pleasing and environmentally responsible. This dedication to blending aesthetics with ecological mindfulness ensures that every project not only meets but exceeds client expectations. John Oxborough and OiDesign offer a blend of artistic vision, personalised service, and unwavering quality, making them the top choice for transforming spaces into stunning, thoughtfully designed environments.
